

Senior citizens were good friends

New Transit station

Passengers left an eastbound Metro Transit bus at the new Montlake Flyer Station today, the first week-day operation of the new service. Express buses operating across Lake Washington on the Evergreen Point Bridge stop at the new station to allow passengers to transfer to local buses serving the University of Washington and Capitol Hill or from local buses to express buses to downtown or to East Side communities. The new station is where Montlake Boulevard crosses Highway 520.—Staff photo by Pete Liddell.
